Communication Station for Kids™ Part I and Talk Show programs build life skills in written and verbal communication. Participants explore their personal interests using Internet research. We foster creativity and excitement for learning while students practice research methods, story structure, word usage, vocal exercises, enunciation and breathing. In CSFK Part I students write a feature story and report their findings in a televised segment that is aired on Channel 77 TV.

The CSFK Talk Show takes students into the art of communication bringing them to the next level of sophistication. Students work in groups, learning negotiation, problem solving and interpersonal communication skills – all in a natural setting. They do all the research and writing as done in the Part I program, but this time there are no cue cards. They learn their material and speak conversationally with the other TV Show Hosts about their topic. Participating in Part I at least once is a prerequisite to being in the Talk Show program.

Written and verbal communication skills are essential tools as students, employees, consumers and citizens. Enhance your child's life by providing the opportunity to learn and practice skills that will positively impact their understanding of the world around them. Students choose what ever piques their interest – movies, art, sports, etc. The program offers a small-group learning environment that is non-competitive and nurturing. Our goals include inspiring, educating, increasing confidence, self-esteem and public presentation skills of young people while having fun and making new friends!
